Introduction

Beginning in October 2024, the Physis Scotland Diploma in UnderSTanding Organisations: A Relationship Centred Approach using TA is a comprehensive study of organisations and their dynamics, designed to enable you to enhance effectiveness and impact in your current organisational role and/or future career.

This Diploma has been designed by highly experienced and internationally acclaimed Organisational TA practitioners with your needs in mind. It is delivered online over 10 modules each year, enabling you to join us from the comfort of your home and from wherever you are located around the globe. Sessions are held on a Thursday evening, Friday daytime and Saturday morning, offering maximum flexibility to enable you to successfully complete your chosen path.

The Diploma in UnderSTanding Organisations draws on TA theories and concepts, supported by a range of other recognised organisational theories to facilitate learning and growth. Rich conversation and group activities are designed to engage you in applying theory to practice, relating course content directly to the groups or organisations you know and work with.

The Diploma in UnderSTanding Organisations is a two-year programme, which is designed in two parts:

- one year of TA study, delivered over 10 online sessions, focused on the individual and the group.
- one year of TA study, delivered over 10 online sessions, focused on the organisation and the system.

Either training year can be undertaken as a standalone course leading to a Certificate in Organisational TA. Completing both years will lead to a Physis Scotland Diploma in UnderSTanding Organisations, providing other course criteria are met.

This programme is designed to be relevant to a broad spectrum of people working in organisations. It is especially suited to those who:

- Are feeling challenged by people issues or working through others in their managerial or leadership role.
- Are looking to equip themselves for a new career move, or a shift of career.
- Are in a professional role – such as Project Manager, Coach, OD, HR or Business Consultant – and seeking to enhance their skill set and understanding of organisations, their structure and dynamics.
- Are seeking to become more effective as a leader and in thinking strategically.
- Are in any role as group leaders and seeking to enhance an understanding of group dynamics.
- Are therapists eager to find other ways to support clients with workplace issues in therapy.
- Are simply familiar with TA or psychotherapy and curious about what TA has to offer the organisational domain.

This Diploma programme will set you up on a professional journey to either enhance your effectiveness and impact in your current role or help you transition into a new role.

Entry Requirements

Physis Scotland strive to be as inclusive, fair and flexible as possible in all respects. In terms of admissions, this means that whilst this course is taught and assessed at post-graduate academic Level (e.g. Level 11 in the Scottish Framework and Level 7 in the English/Welsh Framework), you do not need to be a graduate to apply.

In order to take part in this approach to learning at this level, you will ideally need an organisational context to frame your learning, which can be a group, business or an organisation that is familiar to you, and a certain level of understanding of the core principles and theory of TA. Ordinarily this will be obtained through the following route:

- Completion of a TA 101 course
- Successful completion of the Foundation Year in Transactional Analysis from any registered training institute around the globe.

For those who have not followed this route and have some but limited knowledge of TA, we are delighted to offer an alternative route for you as follows:

- Completion of a TA101 course within the past 3 years,
- Some previous exposure to Transactional Analysis,
- Experience of learning in a group or other advanced professional training,
- Undertaken the recommended reading (TA Today: A New Introduction to Transactional Analysis by Ian Stewart and Vann Joines and Transactional Analysis for Trainers by Julie Hay),

- Prepared written responses to 12 questions to demonstrate knowledge, understanding of core TA theory and reflected on their written answers with a programme facilitator.

Application

The Diploma in UnderSTAnding Organisations: A Relationship Centred Approach Using TA information booklet and application form are available to download from the link below.

Once we receive your application form, we will invite you to attend an informal interview, which will take place online. The interview is an assessment of the suitability of your personal and professional qualities, relevant experience and developmental goals, as well as covering information about the course. It will also allow us to get to know each other and for you to ask any questions about the course.

If you are successful at interview, we will contact you personally to advise you of your place on the course, subject to satisfactory references.

Places are limited and we recommend applying as soon as possible to avoid disappointment. The application deadline is 29th August 2024.

Recognition

Upon successful completion of the two-year course, you will be awarded the Physis Scotland Diploma in UnderSTAnding Organisations: A Relationship Centred Approach Using TA.

Completing one year of this programme will also make participants eligible to exit with a Physis Scotland Certificate in Understanding Organisations: A Relationship Centred Approach Using TA.
